

Critical Path Analysis

This critical path analysis covers up all the needed tasks completed in order to have a successful sprint. The red lines indicate process that are critical to be done before the next step can be started. The white lines indicate processes. These are the subtasks of the PB's sets in the first meeting.